Bridgeport, CT – July 10, 2007 – Harding High School is teaming up with Monroe’s Masuk High School for a summer performance of Working at Masuk on July 13 and 14. A free show, meal, and available transportation from Bridgeport to Monroe will be provided. The schedule will be as follows:

6:30 p.m. - Dinner served

8:00 p.m. - Show

Saturday, July 14

12:00 p.m. - Bus leaves Harding

2:00 p.m. - Show

"Based on a book by Studs Terkel and featuring interviews with American workers, Working sheds new light on people who are so often taken for granted, i.e. valet, newsboy, schoolteacher, waitress, housewife, checkout girl, and so on," explains Sheena Graham-Owens, Director and Harding Performing Arts teacher. "Working will make you laugh, and possibly cry, but it will definitely leave you with new insight and inspiration!"

The performance is the culmination of a camp that Harding and Masuk students attend from July 2 to 14. Students have two weeks to create the production, which includes memorizing lines, choreographing, staging, and designing the set. “It is intense for those students and staff involved, but very rewarding as well,” Graham-Owens said.

This production is made possible through a two-year interdistrict grant. To reserve seating for transportation to Masuk, please call: (203) 452-5823, ext. 3110.
